Good Work Assembly

We ended the half term with a great Good Work Assembly led by Zara and Olly.

The children in Wagtail class demonstrated how good they are with their numerals.

The children in Robin class have been making instruments as part of their learning in 'Splendid Skies', which they played for us.

Kingfisher class shared the monuments they have made as part of their 'Tribal Tales' innovate project.

Some pupils in Owl class read their fabulous writing which was inspired by their book this half term.

We congratulated Annabella on her gymnastics badge. Finally Mrs Proctor presented the school with a 'Lost Words' poetry book as part of the Dorset Reading Partners work that she supports the school with. Well done everyone!

School Uniform

We are beginning to accumulate uniform that is not named in our 'lost property' box outside the school office. If your child is trying to locate a lost item it may be in there!

Any items that are named are returned to their owner, so it would be very useful if all items brought to school are named!

Many thanks.

End of the First Half Term

What a first half term we have had! Our Reception children have settled into school really well and I have been so proud to see how they are 'looked after' by the older children.

The new 'Cornerstones' curriculum which was introduced this term has been a real success. The children have really engaged with their learning and it has been wonderful to see children inspired through the 'innovate' and 'express' elements of their learning. These have ranged from Wagtails making clay tiles with their parents, Robins making and flying paper aeroplanes, Kingfishers building tribal monuments and Owls scientifically investigating the formation of craters! We are very grateful to the Friends, as it is through their fundraising that the new scheme was purchased.

Don't forget to look on the school website for all of the photographs that are regularly uploaded. You will need the link to access the 'events' section of the Parents as Partners page where the photographs can be viewed.

New Curriculum

Attached you will find the information sheets that explain the topics your children will be learning about after half term.
